

How do you deal with...?

Image 1

Task 1:

Imagine you wanted to do a survey of the users of a new technology or a specific field of study. - Is there any sort of research in your field for which you would need ethics approval from an official body? What would the procedure be? Give your partner advice on how to go about this.

Task 2:

Together, collect some controversial topics in the natural sciences general. What kind of questions and debates could arise from these issues? In what context would you be likely to have these debates? How would you advise your partner to react to this sort of controversy? Then think of a topic of contentious debate in your own field. Describe it to your partner and ask for his/her advice on the matter.
